M'CLANAHAN DEMANDS LOYALTY

Honolulu, Sept. 26, 1906.
To the Chairman and Members of the Democratic Central Committee of the Territory of Hawaii.

Gentlemen:—In accepting the honor of the candidacy for Delegate to Congress proffered me by the Democratic Party of the Territory of Hawaii, I desire to state that I am informed that were I to decline to run, the party in all likelihood would be left without a candidate for the office in question. At the same time I cannot accept the nomination without great sacrifice to my private interests.

Unfortunately therefore the situation calls for a choice between the sacrifice of self interests and the interests of my party. While to my mind there can be but one right course open to me, still I feel in handing you this my acceptance I have the right to and do require, in return for the obligations assumed by me, not only the votes, but the active loyal support of every Democrat in the Territory as well as that of all other voters who deem that the interests of the Territory will be best subserved by my election.

To my party I pledge faithful allegiance; to our opponents a fair but strenuous fight; and to our Territory, should I win, my constant purpose to strive within appropriate lines towards the accomplishment of Hawaii's material prosperity and fraternal peace. I remain, Your obedient servant,
E. B. M'CLANAHAN.

MIGHT HAVE SCUTTLED MANCHURIA

WHAT MIGHT HAVE BEEN NECESSARY TO HAVE SAVED THE BIG PACIFIC MAIL LINER.

While the grounding of the S. S. Manchuria was a most unfortunate occurrence, it is by no means unlikely that a more costly mishap would have overtaken her had the accident last August not occurred. The vessel would have been in Hong Kong at the time of the recent typhoon and she would moreover have been practically empty. Standing high out of the water the vessel would have been a perfect mark for the fury of the typhoon. One of the big German Lloyd steamers, the Prinz Waldemar, was wrecked in Hong Kong by the typhoon. She is almost as large as the Manchuria.

Captain Saunders was asked what would have been the probable effect of the storm on the Manchuria and what could have been done in event of the Manchuria being in Hong Kong during the storm. "It is hard to say," he replied "what could have been done. The vessel would have been pretty high out of the water at the time. It might have been advisable to have pulled out the sea cocks and sunk her but there might not have been time for even such a thing."

"It is impossible to say what would have happened had she been in Hong Kong during that typhoon. I see that there were a great many steamers wrecked. The Manchuria might have been one of them."
